Variações de pregas e babados

► Um babado duplo é franzido dos dois lados da peça.

◄ Quando se aumenta a tensão da linha, formam-se ondulações arredondadas em forma de sino. Um babado simples é franzido apenas no alto, e a borda de baixo ondula livremente.

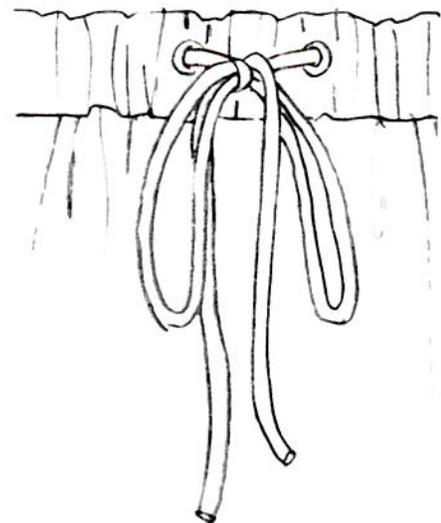

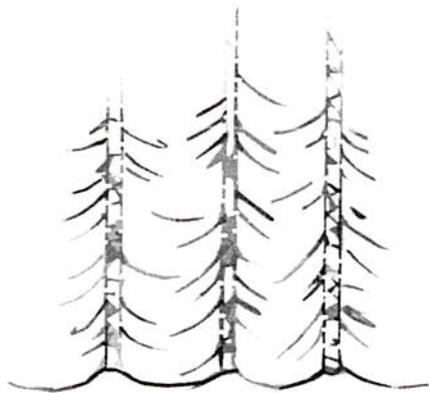

◄ Múltiplos babados simples podem ser superpostos em camadas.

► Quando se aumenta a tensão de múltiplas linhas paralelas de costura forma-se um franzido. O franzido pode acompanhar linhas de costura de desenho livre criando um padrão mais natural.

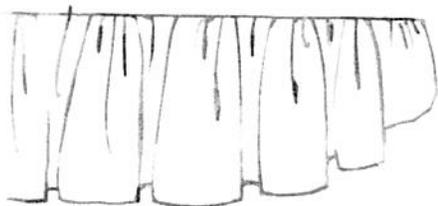

◄ A aparência de um franzido criado sobre costuras verticais será diferente devido ao efeito da gravidade sobre o caimento.

► Elásticos ou cordões passados dentro de um túnel também criam pregas.

◄ Babado simples com uma borda modelada.

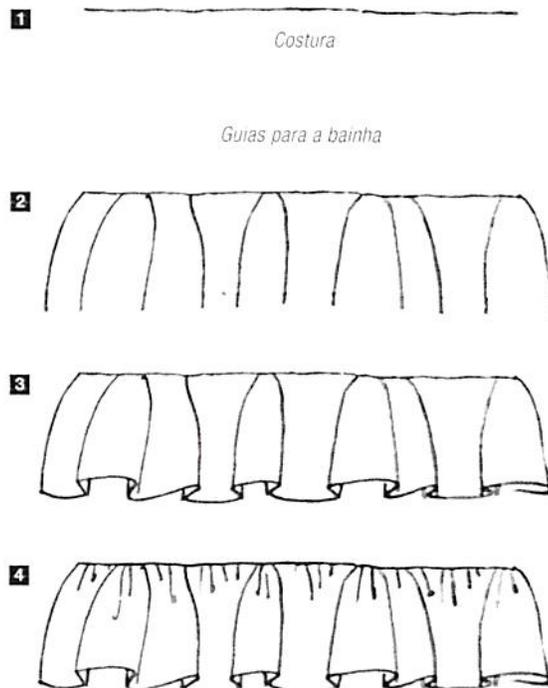

Como mencionado, as pregas terão uma aparência diferente dependendo da posição em relação à altura do olhar. Antes de tentar desenhar uma peça pregueada na figura, primeiro estude um babado simples de dois diferentes pontos de vista:

Babado acima da altura do olhar

Comece com um babado de maneira como ele apareceria acima da altura do olhar (no decote, por exemplo).

- 1 Desenhe uma linha horizontal para a costura e, abaixo, duas guias para a borda inferior.
- 2 Trace as linhas do drapeado de modo que criem formas de sino.
- 3 Acrescente linhas curvas à barra, usando a guia de cima para as dobras que se projetam para fora e a de baixo para as que se voltam para dentro. Desenhe os cantos internos das dobras.
- 4 Acrescente pregas junto à costura.

Babado abaixo da altura do olhar

Desenhe um babado de maneira como ele apareceria abaixo da altura do olhar (na barra de uma saia ou vestido, por exemplo).

- 1 Desenhe uma linha horizontal para a costura e, abaixo, duas guias para a borda inferior.
- 2 Trace as linhas do drapeado de modo que criem formas de sino.
- 3 Acrescente linhas curvas à barra, desta vez usando a guia de cima para as dobras que se voltam para dentro e as de baixo para as que se projetam para fora.
- 4 Acrescente pregas junto à costura.
